Do you have an uncertain feeling about the quality of your software? Your code runs about right somehow for most of the time. Because of some good faith maybe.
Has your application difficulties to perform at peek usages and does it ask for an extra memory modul again and again?

With an objective analysis we, at FeurerWorks, can give you a fresh perspective on your software solutions. We can help you organize your code and give you more insight into your wood by showing you a way through all the trees. Quality and performance measurements let you optimize your applications and keep them in good shape.
